

Want vs Need

I want. I want it now. I want it and I should have it. I want it and I deserve it.

I want it, so I will use the law of abundance and wonder where is it as I have wanted it for several days and it is not here yet.

We all have the I want. Often, we get what we want and what we strive for. Yes, there is a cost in time, effort, education, and practice to get our hearts desire. That is all part of the getting and it also makes us feel the value in that we worked to get it. Yes, want and then work to fulfill the want.

What happens when we want and work and work and our want is never fulfilled? Are we cheated? Why did it not work? I did what I had to do and it failed? I thought the law of abundance always worked?

The law of abundance does always work. If we do not get our want we need to look more closely at what that lack, that not getting our desire, means. What is the lesson.

The lesson could be many things such as:

- subconsciously we did not truly want the item
- subconsciously we did not feel worthy of the item
- subconsciously we did not feel we could do what was needed to obtain the item
- we did not invest the time needed
- we did not learn the skills needed
- we did not practice as needed
- we had other wants that were more important at the time
- the want was not strong - it was more like wishful thinking

Consciously we have wants. Some are just not strong enough and literally a wish that comes and goes as quickly as it comes. These rarely materialize.

Interestingly, our conscious wants are overridden by our subconscious. Our subconscious knows our true and real wants and desires. It is the subconscious truth that usually works.

There is also the issue of wants vs need. Many times we end up with what we needed rather than what we wanted. It is only in hindsight and review that we find out how fortunate we were to obtain what we needed rather than what we wanted at the time. What we wanted was not right and what we obtained was.

If you do not get your want know there was a reason for what you did get. The value comes in resting in what you did get and finding out why. Was it one of the reasons on the list about? Or, was it just that you were getting what you needed vs what you thought you wanted?

The law of abundance as well as the law of nature works all the time. The law is and it is applied in all situations the same. Know that the laws do not fail. Know that if we do not get what we want there is a reason, a value and a lesson in it. It is for us to find the lesson and the value.